

Reminder: Last Chance in 2012 for Free Harbor Tour Reservations open Monday, September 10, for October dates

September 7, 2012

Enjoy the sights and sounds of a major international seaport close-up on one of the free, narrated harbor tours offered by the Port of Long Beach. All you need is a reservation.

Reservations open 8 a.m. Monday, September 10, for the October tours. Go to www.polb.com/porttours to see tour dates and make a reservation online. You can also make a reservation by calling (562) 283-7700 when reservations open.

October is the final month of the Port's harbor tour season in 2012. The Port's tour program this year has included a special "sunset cruise" each month, capturing the harbor at evening time.

The Port of Long Beach, the second busiest seaport in the United States, is a hub of international commerce with massive freight ships, powerful tugboats and soaring cranes. You can see it all from the water on one of our 90-minute tours.

Seating is limited and spaces go fast, so reserve promptly. The October dates will be the last in the tour season. Tours will resume in May 2013.
