

Historical Port Publications Now Online

Magazines, annual reports run from 1950s to 2000s

Oct. 23, 2013

Port publications from the late 1950s through the 2000s are now available online. The Harbor Highlights and later Interport magazines cover the years 1958-2005, and feature stories on day-to-day Port activities, photos — many in color — of important events and guests, and the Port's annual reports, which show how trade, cargo and revenue developed over the last half-century.

Early highlights include the opening of the Administration Building (spring 1960), the Port's 50th anniversary (winter 1961), the arrival of containerization (summer 1962), and a self-guided tour of the Port ("See-Lane Edition," 1964). Later issues focus on trade and infrastructure development, with items on bigger ships coming to Long Beach, the expansion of Pier J, the Alameda Corridor and more.

To see the publications, visit <http://www.polb.com/about/history/historicalpubs.asp>.

Also available on the historical publications page is a history of the Port by pier from 1909-2002 and a Project History from 1970-2002. And in the history pages are a decade-by-decade history of the Port, biographies of Harbor Commissioners from 1925 to the present and a link to the Port's Centennial website. Go to polb.com/history.

The publications are available to view online and to download; each magazine or report is also fully searchable. As the Port locates more material it will be added to the site.
