CITY OF LONG BEACH TO SHOWCASE 40 ENGINEERING JOBS

An open house, which will profile a minimum of 40 employment opportunities for engineers and related technical positions with the City and Port of Long Beach, is scheduled for April 21 at the Port of Long Beach Administration Building, 925 Harbor Plaza.

The event, called The Long Beach Engineering Career symposium, begins at 8:30 a.m. and includes lunch, a presentation and tour of more than $1 billion in Port and City capital improvement projects.

The focus will be on the variety of professional engineering and technical positions and major projects at the City's Energy, Harbor, Planning and Building, Public Works and Water departments as well as on the City's benefit package, which will be presented in detail by City engineering professionals and other City officials.

Jesse B. Johnson, Jr., recruitment officer for the City, who is coordinating the event, said that reservations to attend the symposium can be made by contacting Sharon Hamilton at: (562) 570-7133, or by e-mail at: demcclu@ci.long-beach.ca.us
